Last Quarter 19th Century

The Malone House is a large frame structure dating from the last quarter of the 19th Century. It has elements of Victorian Gothic style in the broad dormer over the entrance bay. The three story tower-like structure is reminiscent of the Queen Anne style. The two story verandahs appear to have been built at two periods because of the difference in balustrades. Another house of similar proportions stands about a mile toward Ridgely.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Dr. Malone House is located on the west side of Main Street south of the center of Greensboro. The building is an odd structure built in the last quarter of the 19th century. It is four bays long, two and one-half storys tall, and one-third of the building rising to three full storys. It has elements of Victorian Gothic style, especially in the broad dormer over the entrance bay. The three story tower-like structure is reminiscent of the Queen Anne style. Across the entire facade is a two story verandah which appears to have been constructed in two periods, although it may be the result of remodeling.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

Dr. Malone House is one of Greensboro's larger houses and is unusual for its tower section, porches, and general configuration. It is similar to another house closer to Ridgely in its tower room, and like that house, it is very plain and cannot really be categorized as a specific style
